

COUNCIL WILL PLACE LIGHTS IN CENTER SQ.

Four Standards To Be Erected In Oval With Signals For Police.

BUY MACHINE FOR OFFICERS

Adding to the beautification of Gettysburg's center square flower and shrubbery plot, council voted to place four light standards inside the curb of the plot at a special meeting, Thursday evening. Council held its session after its meeting with the citizens' water committee.

The contract for the installation of the lights was awarded to the H. and T. electric company, York street, the lower of two bidders. The H. and T. company bid $170 for the installation of the lights. The other bid was $230.

Council has the standards and the globes, having salvaged the ones formerly located in Center square. The borough, however, must pay for the running of the conduit from the southeast corner of the square to the center plot.

The light standards will be placed in the middle of the center line of the four streets radiating from the square.

Near the top of each standard and facing each of the streets, a green light will be installed as signals for the police force. These lights will be connected with the United telephone company's exchange here, and whenever a call is placed for the police the green lights will be turned on.

The light standards will give the necessary illumination to the center square plot which is now dark during the night.

Council ratified the purchase of a two-door coach for the police force. The car was bought by the property committee from the Crescent auto company, North Stratton street, at a figure under $500. Council also voted to advertise for bids for a truck for the highway department to replace the present worn-out machine. Bids will be opened at next month's meeting, scheduled for July 7.

Two Hour Parking

Parking in Center square and one block from the square on each of the four streets radiating therefrom will be limited to two hours as a result of council's passage of an amendment to its present parking ordinance. The present limit is three hours during the day and four hours at night.

Council also instructed the highway committee to purchase signs to be placed along the curbs calling motorists' attention to the two-hour parking ordinance.

The name of Mummaburg street, between West Lincoln avenue and West Broadway, was changed to College avenue by a unanimous vote of council.

Council voted to place a light at the alley on Delap avenue. A light which previously was there was removed some time ago.

The property committee was instructed to have the fine engine house repainted.

Council heard a report of conditions in the Tiber and Culp's run, prepared by Leroy Winebrenner, borough surveyor. Mr. Winebrenner reported sewage and wash water emptying into the Tiber, the bed of which is covered with stones and other debris. The report was submitted to the board of health for action.

President A. R. Levan presided. Other councilmen present included John Newman, J. B. Wineman, C. W. Epley, W. A. Miller, D. C. Stallsmith, C. Ray Rupp and E. C. Williams.

Town Streets Are Being Repaired

Nine streets and sections of others in Gettysburg are now being improved with a top coat of oil and stones. The work is being done by borough employees under the supervision of the highway committee of council.

Bedford Hotel And Chamber Officials Invite Guides And Others.

SEEK HARMONY IN MOTOR TRADE

"Gettysburg Day" will be observed in Bedford on Monday, June 27, at which time members of the Gettysburg Battlefield Guides Association and the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce, who will be honored guests of that historic community, will be entertained at that popular Pennsylvania resort.

The invitation was extended in order that Gettysburgians may see at first hand the facilities and attractions of Bedford and in an endeavor to bring about closer friendly relationships between the two communities which by reason of their appeal to tourist travel and their location on the Lincoln highway have much in common. The invitation was extended to officers of the guides' association and the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Thursday morning in the Hotel Gettysburg by a delegation from Bedford consisting of Jere C. West, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Corle H. Smith, president of the hotel association; Fred Sammel, president of the merchants' association, and Roy Cessna, a director of the Chamber of Commerce.

Motor Caravan

Plans developed at the conference call for the formation of a motor caravan to leave here at 7:30 o'clock in the morning arriving in Bedford at 10 o'clock.

Bedford will be decorated with Gettysburg banners and the caravan will be met at the borough limit by Bedford merchants who will conduct the visitors on a tour around the scenic environs of that town. This tour will terminate at the Bedford Springs Hotel where a luncheon will be tendered the visitors by the co-operating Bedford organizations.

The afternoon will be spent at Bedford Springs where the privileges of the famous Bedford Springs golf course, the indoor and outdoor swimming pool, the tennis courts and all the other features of sport and social entertainment that are available will be placed at the disposal of the Gettysburg delegation. In extending the invitation the Bedford officials stressed the fact that Gettysburg and Bedford have much in common and by having first hand knowledge of the features of each community the two towns can cooperate in making recommendations to tourist travel.

Highway Features

During the conference the importance of stressing the superior features of the Lincoln highway was emphasized and it was pointed out that the two communities should work in harmony in this respect.

Each is confronted with short routes, the use of which direct traffic away from each community. In the case of Gettysburg, it is the short route to Washington from McConnellsburg which passes through McConnellsburg and takes traffic off the Lincoln highway at McConnellsburg which formerly continued east to Gettysburg. In the case of Bedford, it is a choice of using the National or the Lincoln highway west from Gettysburg. Co-operation of the two towns can encourage traffic going either east or west to use the Lincoln highway.

Nurse, Questioned In Lindbergh Kidnapping, Ends Own Life Today

Violet Sharp, Maid At Morrow Home, Who Was Quizzed Several Times In Connection With Kidnapping And Murder Of Baby, Takes Poison.

FACED QUESTIONING TODAY

Hackensack, N. J., (AP).—Special Prosecutor George F. Losch announced today that Violet Sharp, a maid at the Morrow home in Englewood, New Jersey, who was questioned about the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, had committed suicide. A servant found the maid's body in the pantry of the first floor. A bottle containing poison was found in her room on the second floor. She has been in the Morrows' employ for two years.

State police officers said Miss Sharp had been questioned three times prior to today. Once she had been taken to the Lindbergh home.

Doctor Allen said that Miss Sharp was to have been questioned again today in connection with the kidnapping and murder of the baby. The officers, it appeared, are not entirely satisfied with her previous stories and intended to question the maid again.

An autopsy was scheduled to be performed over the body of Miss Sharp later today.

"Unwritten Law" Defense Hinted In County Woman's Story of Killing of Rival

While officials continued their investigation of the killing of Mrs. Pauline Eckenrode, eighteen-year-old mother of two children, which occurred Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heist, York, Theda Mae, the two-year-old daughter of the murder victim, still at the Heist home, calls constantly for her parent, who will be buried Saturday.

An interview with the man who brought Mrs. Mabel Spindorf, resident of Adams county, charged with the murder, from her home near Littlestown, to York, Wednesday night; the release of the alleged murderess' husband, Joseph Spindorf, from the York county jail, and the finding and identifying of the gun used by the woman in a fit of jealous rage in shooting down her supposed rival, were the developments in the case.

Jealousy Motive Confirmed

The developments further strengthen the belief of the officers that jealousy was the motive of the murder. In an interview held yesterday afternoon in the York county jail with District Attorney Ralph F. Fisher, Mrs. Spindorf is alleged to have said that she was tired of having her home life made unhappy by interfering persons and further said that these persons, who remained nameless, even went so far as to try to break up her home.

Mrs. Spindorf identified a short-barreled blue steel .32 calibre pistol as the one from which the shot was fired, as belonging to her. This gun was found by Special Officer G. Kishmer, at 8 o'clock Thursday morning beneath the rubber floor covering in the automobile of her husband, which had been parked throughout the night in a lane at the side of the Heist home. The .32 calibre gun found Wednesday night in an outside toilet at the Heist address, it is now believed, is the property of some member of the household who attempted to conceal it after the murder. One shell had been discharged from the revolver found Thursday morning.

Mrs. Spindorf also stated to the district attorney that she carried the revolver in her handbag and not in her bosom as was reported by witnesses present at the shooting.

SEEK POOR AID FROM WORKERS OF STATE HERE

James B. Aumen Addresses Appeal To 80 State Employees In County.

MONEY WILL BE USED IN COUNTY

Letters were mailed Thursday by James B. Aumen, chairman of the Gettysburg fire company poor chest committee, to each of the more than 80 state employees from Adams county asking them to contribute part of their salaries to the poor chest for work among the needy and distressed in Gettysburg and Adams county next winter.

According to Mr. Aumen, each state employee has already been asked by the state welfare department, and Governor Pinchot, to contribute monthly between June 1, 1932, and May 31, 1933, a sum to be used for welfare work. Choice of the charity is left to each state employee.

1,800 Idle Here

"In Adams county, we have more than 1,800 citizens who are out of employment," Mr. Aumen's letter reads, "and many of them are in actual need. From the present outlook the coming winter will require more money to take care of these unfortunate than was required last year. Don't you think your money could be used to good advantage in your own county? The poor chest committee of the Gettysburg fire company has been carrying on this work for the past several years in Gettysburg and if you will make your contributions payable to us we will establish a county fund in which all contributions will be placed, this to be a separate fund from that contributed by the citizens of Gettysburg and will be used wherever needed anywhere in Adams county. Other counties are looking after their needy and it is only right and proper that Adams county should take care of her own."

"Not one dollar will be spent for overhead and you can rest assured that every dollar contributed will go to relieve distress in Adams county."

Contributions may be sent to D. C. Stallsmith, treasurer of the poor chest committee.

Besides Mr. Aumen and Mr. Stallsmith, other members of the committee are William G. Weaver, secretary; Joseph E. Codori and Rufus H. Bushman.

Group Seeks Incorporation

A petition for the incorporation of a group to be known as the "Taxpayers' Union" was filed in the office of S. L. Allison, prothonotary, Thursday, by J. Donald Swope, Gettysburg attorney-at-law.

The aims and objects of the union as set forth in the petition follow: "For the encouragement of good government and to that end the securing of a proper and equitable state of mind; the maintaining of common social, educational and protective contacts, and the maintaining of the necessary means and processes for the gathering and dissemination of general information."

C. W. Bucher, Gettysburg R. D., is listed as president of the group. Trustees and officers follow: J. Harry Pecher, Fairfield, vice president; L. D. Plank, Gettysburg R. 2, secretary; Chester Shriver, Gettysburg R. 2, treasurer; Walter Mohring, Gettysburg R. D.; George Rohrbach, Gettysburg R. D., and John E. Bieseker, Orrtanna, trustees.

Water Company Will Submit New Plan to Solve Situation Here

Officials Voice Objection And "Prohibitive Cost" Of 5,000,000 Gallon Reservoir, Enlarged Dam And Other Improvements; Promise To Make Suggestions Soon.

DECLARE LOCAL RESIDENTS HAVE NO REASON TO "FEEL ALARMED"

Counter-proposals to those offered by the Gettysburg citizens' water committee will be submitted by the water company as a result of a meeting of the water committee and officials of the Penn Central Light and Power company, of Altoona, the company which operates the local water company, at a meeting at the fire engine house, Thursday evening.

W. H. Wade, vice president of the operating company, and John S. Cole, manager in charge of operations, were the spokesmen for the light and power company at the meeting which was attended by members of council and the water committee.

At a meeting of council and the water committee last month, a four-point program of improvements for the water company was outlined, and Mr. Wade and Mr. Cole discussed each of them at the Thursday evening session.

Regarding the operation of the auxiliary steam pump at the water company's pumping station, Mr. Wade said that equipment was kept in readiness for immediate use should the electric power, used to drive the pumps, fail. He said the steam pump could be made ready in two hours in event of a breakdown in the electric service, and that Gettysburgians need "never feel alarmed that they will be out of water from such a contingency."

$6,000 Improvements

The company, Mr. Wade added, is spending $6,000 in improvements to lines in Gettysburg this year. This work, he said, includes extensions, enlargements and the elimination of "dead ends."

Discussing the proposal that the company construct a 5,000,000 gallon reservoir on East Cemetery hill to augment the present 1,000,000 gallon basin, Mr. Wade said the cost of such an improvement would be $90,000, and that the company is financially unable to bear that expense at the present time.

He added that a 5,000,000 gallon reservoir for Gettysburg is not feasible because the water in such a large basin becomes "flat" and devitalized from standing. "Gettysburg," he continued, "uses between 500,000 and 700,000 gallons of water a day, most of which is pumped directly into the lines from the pumping station, only the overflow going into the reservoir. When the pumping plant is shut down for from eight to ten hours every day, the town gets its water from the reservoir, but with a larger basin the water would soon become flat, bitter and unfit for human consumption."

1 1/2 Million Capacity

The filtration plant at the pumping station, he said, has a daily capacity of 1,500,000 gallons, "thereby assuring Gettysburg of fresh water at all times." The present plant, he declared, is "perfectly adequate" for some time to come.

On the proposal that the water company construct a new dam at the pumping station to impound a larger volume of water, especially in dry weather, Mr. Wade said the company has gone over that phase, and found that a seven-foot dam, while impounding 15,000,000 gallons of water, would cause flooding of some land above the pumping station.

He said such a dam would cost approximately $8,000 and that the cost of buying land which would be flooded by the impounded water would be an additional $6,250. The cost of rebuilding Bream's dam would be $1,250, the company official said.

Adding the cost of a new reservoir, the new dams and the cost of the land, a total of approximately $105,000, Mr. Wade said the company finds itself unable to finance such an outlay at present.

Would Increase Rates

"To add such a sum to the capitalization of the company," he continued, "would mean increased rates for local consumers, and at this time (Continued on Page Two)

"Unwritten Law" Defense Hinted in County Woman's Story of Killing of Rival

While officials continued their investigation of the killing of Mrs. Pauline Eckenrode, eighteen-year-old mother of two children, which occurred Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heist, York, Theda Mae, the two-year-old daughter of the murder victim, still at the Heist home, calls constantly for her parent, who will be buried Saturday.

An interview with the man who brought Mrs. Mabel Spirindorf, resident of Adams county, charged with the murder, from her home near Littlestown, to York, Wednesday night; the release of the alleged murderer's husband, Joseph Spirindorf, from the York county jail, and the finding and identifying of the gun used by the woman in a fit of jealous rage in shooting down her supposed rival, were the developments in the case.

Jealousy Motive Confirmed
The developments further strengthen the belief of the officers that jealousy was the motive of the murder. In an interview held yesterday afternoon in the York county jail with District Attorney Ralph F. Fisher, Mrs. Spirindorf is alleged to have said that she was tired of having her home life made unhappy by interfering persons and further said that these persons, who remained nameless, even went so far as to try to break up her home.

Mrs. Spirindorf identified a short-barreled blue steel 32 calibre pistol as the one from which the shot was fired, as belonging to her. This gun was found by Special Officer G. Kishmer, at 8 o'clock Thursday morning beneath the rubber floor covering in the automobile of her husband, which had been parked throughout the night in a lane at the side of the Heist home. The 32 calibre gun found Wednesday night in an outside toilet at the Heist address, it is now believed, is the property of some member of the household who attempted to conceal it after the murder. One shell had been discharged from the revolver found Thursday morning.

Mrs. Spirindorf also stated to the district attorney that she carried the revolver in her handbag and not in her bosom as was reported by witnesses present at the shooting.

Spirindorf Released
At 6:30 o'clock Thursday night Joseph Spirindorf, husband of the

A waterworks permit was issued Thursday by Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health, to the Abbottstown Water company, approving a waterworks system, including a new concrete reservoir having a capacity of 100,000 gallons, and two springs on the property of H. A. Waltman.

All systems of public water supply, reservoirs, sources of supply and methods of distribution must be approved by the state department of health before they may legally serve the public. Such approval is evinced by the issuance of a permit by Doctor Appel.

SEEK POOR AID FROM WORKERS OF STATE HERE

James B. Aumen Addresses Appeal To 80 State Employees In County.

MONEY WILL BE USED IN COUNTY

Letters were mailed Thursday by James B. Aumen, chairman of the Gettysburg fire company poor chest committee, to each of the more than 80 state employees from Adams county asking them to contribute part of their salaries to the poor chest for work among the needy and distressed in Gettysburg and Adams county next winter.

According to Mr. Aumen, each state employee has already been asked by the state welfare department and Governor Pinchot to contribute monthly between June 1, 1932, and May 31, 1933, a sum to be used for welfare work. Choice of the charity is left to each state employee.

1,800 Idle Here

"In Adams county, we have more than 1,800 citizens who are out of employment," Mr. Aumen's letter reads, "and many of them are in actual need. From the present outlook the coming winter will require more money to take care of these unfortunates than was required last year. Don't you think your money could be used to good advantage in your own county? The poor chest committee of the Gettysburg fire company has been carrying on this work for the past several years in Gettysburg and if you will make your contributions payable to us we will establish a county fund in which all contributions will be placed, this to be a separate fund from that contributed by the citizens of Gettysburg and will be used wherever needed anywhere in Adams county. Other counties are looking after their needy and it is only right and proper that Adams county should take care of her own."

"Not one dollar will be spent for overhead and you can rest assured that every dollar contributed will go to relieve distress in Adams county."

Contributions may be sent to D. C. Stallsmith, treasurer of the poor chest committee.

Besides Mr. Aumen and Mr. Stallsmith, other members of the committee are William G. Weaver, secretary; Joseph E. Codori and Rufus H. Bushman.

Group Seeks Incorporation

A petition for the incorporation of a group to be known as the "Taxpayers' Union" was filed in the office of S. L. Allison, prothonotary, Thursday, by J. Donald Swope, Gettysburg attorney-at-law.

The aims and objects of the union as set forth in the petition follow: "For the encouragement of good government and to that end the securing of a proper and equitable state of mind; the maintaining of common social, educational and protective contacts, and the maintaining of the necessary means and processes for the gathering and dissemination of general information."

C. W. Bucher, Gettysburg R. D., is listed as president of the group. Trustees and officers follow:

J. Harry Pecher, Fairfield, vice president; L. D. Plank, Gettysburg R. 2, secretary; Chester Shriver, Gettysburg R. 2, treasurer; Walter Mehning, Gettysburg R. D.; George Rohrbach, Gettysburg R. D.; and John E. Biesecker, Orrtanna, trustees.

Water Company Will Submit New Plan to Solve Situation Here

Officials Voice Objection And "Prohibitive Cost" Of 5,000,000 Gallon Reservoir, Enlarged Dam And Other Improvements; Promise To Make Suggestions Soon.

DECLARE LOCAL RESIDENTS HAVE NO REASON TO "FEEL ALARMED"

Counter-proposals to those offered by the Gettysburg citizens' water committee will be submitted by the water company as a result of a meeting of the water committee and officials of the Penn Central Light and Power company, of Altoona, the company which operates the local water company, at a meeting at the fire engine house, Thursday evening.

W. H. Wade, vice president of the operating company, and John S. Cole, manager in charge of operations, were the spokesmen for the light and power company at the meeting which was attended by members of council and the water committee.

At a meeting of council and the water committee last month, a four-point program of improvements for the water company was outlined, and Mr. Wade and Mr. Cole discussed each of them at the Thursday evening session.

Regarding the operation of the auxiliary steam pump at the water company's pumping station, Mr. Wade said that equipment was kept in readiness for immediate use should the electric power, used to drive the pumps, fail. He said the steam pump could be made ready in two hours in event of a breakdown in the electric service, and that Gettysburgians need "never feel alarmed that they will be out of water from such a contingency."

POLICE SEEK MISSING MAN

Noah Grove, Near Abbottstown, Disappears May 26; Hiking To East Berlin.

State police of the local sub-station, after conducting a vain search today for Noah Grove, near Abbottstown, who has been missing since May 26, broadcast a description of the man over the state teletype system.

Grove left the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ollie Grove, near Abbottstown, presumably to go to visit his brother, Jacob Grove, at East Berlin.

Grove's sister-in-law told him the distance was too great and offered to take him in an automobile, but he declined, saying he would follow the East Berlin branch railroad tracks. That was the last he was seen, so far as can be learned.

Find No Trace
As soon as Grove's disappearance became known, relatives and friends began searching for the missing man, but so far their efforts have been futile. Search along the railroad right-of-way has failed to uncover a trace of the missing man, who is 57 years old.

About three weeks ago, Grove's home on the Loose fruit farm in the Pigeon Hills was burned to the ground, resulting in the loss of all his personal belongings. He was bedfast about a week after the fire due to inhaling smoke while fighting the flames.

Several years ago, Grove fell from a wagon and suffered severe injuries, and since then he has not been his former self.

Grove is well-known in the vicinity of Abbottstown, where he resided for many years.

County Woman's Mother Expires

Sarah Catherine Aumen, widow of Edward Aumen, died Thursday afternoon at 2:10 o'clock from a complication of diseases at the home of her son, Charles E. Aumen, Hanover, with whom she had made her home. She was 77 years of age.

She was a daughter of Edward and Lydia (Steffy) Riffe. Surviving are two children, Mrs. Charles Weaver, McSherrytown, and Charles E. Aumen, with whom she resided; eight grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. Funeral services Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with services at the house, the Rev. A. O. Bartholomew, Littlestown, officiating. Interment in Mt. Carmel cemetery, Littlestown.

Waives Hearing On Liquor Charge

McClellan Swartz, ex-burgess of Spring Grove, charged with operating a car while under the influence of liquor following an accident at Brush Run crossing, Tuesday evening, when the car he was driving crashed into a freight train, waived a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace John C. Shearer this afternoon, and renewed his bail for the August term of court.

Local Pitchers Defeat Hanover

Gettysburg's 12-man standing team of horseshoe pitchers defeated Hanover, Thursday night, at Hanover, 33 to 21 games. The locals outclassed their opponents in four of the six matches, David Bolen and Thomas Rosensteel showing up the best with an 8 to 1 victory in their set.

On Wednesday the local pitchers will meet Westminster here in a six-man walking team event.

LEAGUE TILTS FOR SATURDAY

Cellar Clubs In County Loop Will Battle To Rise From Bottom Rung.

Three teams of the Adams county baseball league will battle to get out of the cellar Saturday afternoon when all league teams are scheduled to play their fourth game.

Arendtsville, Bendersville, and Cash-town are deadlocked for first place with two wins and a defeat. Gettysburg, Fairfield and Gardners are at the bottom of the heap, each sporting one victory and a pair of defeats.

Saturday's schedule calls for Bendersville at Gettysburg, Arendtsville at Fairfield and Gardners at Cash-town.

The local team showed plenty of batting punch in their recent game with Goodyear but whether or not they will be able to repeat against stronger opposition is problematical. Falling to hit in the pinches, coupled with some ragged hurling, has cost the locals two games and unless improvement is made in these departments, Gettysburg will not go very far in the league race.

B. Knox, Fleming and Maust are ready to hurl against Bendersville. The infield will be selected from Kitzmiller, Flynn, Moser, Miller and McSherry. K. Knox, Roddy, Dickson, Shanebrook, Culp and Hoffman are ready for outfield duty and Johnny Keller will do the catching.

Next Monday Gettysburg will play the colored giants on the playground and on Tuesday will play a return game at Goodyear. Efforts are being made to arrange another game for here Thursday.

Beam; recreation, in charge of the Presbyterian group; box lunch; short devotional period, by members of the Christ Lutheran church, and adjournment.

Apple, Peach Crop Not Hurt

Harrisburg, June 10 (AP)—Pennsylvania farmers are receiving prices for all farm products at 66 per cent of the pre-war level while costs of farm materials are 12 per cent above the pre-war level, the federal state crop reporting service announced today.

The report said that in the commercial fruit growing areas indications point to slightly less than three-fourths of a full crop of apples, peaches, and pears and better than three-fifths of a cherry crop.

"Apples were injured somewhat, but not seriously, by frost in May," the report said. "Early varieties were favored with good weather and generally set well. Wet weather interfered with pollination of late varieties, especially Yorks, and the set is generally light."

Ex-Abyssinian Emperor Awaits Dry Season to Start Revolution

Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, June 10 (AP)—Like Napoleon, the former Emperor Lijl Jeassu of Abyssinia has escaped captivity and is gathering an army about him to march on the present ruler, Haile Selassie.

But, unlike Napoleon, Jeassu fled garbed as a woman, it was revealed and is awaiting the end of the rainy season in the wilds of Gojjam before he tries to settle his score with Selassie.

Emperor Haile Selassie announced he had sent his minister of war and an army into Gojjam to settle the score now. It is reported, however, that the emperor's soldiers are deserting him in favor of the former ruler.

The present trouble apparently began late in May when Ras Hailou,

"Unwritten Law"

The woman would not talk concerning the details of the killing. "On these matters she remained mute," District Attorney Ralph P. Fisher stated. The alleged killer is a niece of Mrs. Frank Heist, in whose home the killing took place.

Late Thursday afternoon Officer R. H. Lucabaugh, of Spring Garden township; Court Detective Fred W. Kottcamp, Constable Ralph Keech and Coroner L. U. Zech, upon information received from the woman, went to the garage of Bryant C. Harget, Littlestown R. D. 4, who admitted he was the man who brought Mrs. Spirindorf to York.

In an interview with the officers he stated that he went to the Spirindorf home Wednesday morning to see the husband on a business matter. Mrs. Spirindorf informed him that her husband was at work but would be home at 6 p. m. When her husband did not arrive at his customary time, Mrs. Spirindorf called the foundry, near Hanover, where he is an employee, and was told that he had not been at work all day.

Harget returned at 6 p. m. to the residence, and he told the officers that the woman said that her husband must be in York, and then requested that he take her to Hanover. He complied with her wish, he added, although he had never seen her before that time. While on the way to Hanover Mrs. Spirindorf pleaded with him to take her to York. Finally he agreed and after letting her out of the car at the Lancaster avenue address, immediately left for home.

After hearing his story and questioning him at length, the officers did not take him to York.

The investigators further learned that the inmates of the Heist home had been guests at a party held at the Spirindorf residence on Tuesday night.

Funeral Arrangements

The revolver alleged to have been used by the woman is said to have been a gift to her from a woman relative by the name of Laughman. It was given to her about three months ago.

Funeral services for Mrs. Eckenrode Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the funeral home of the W. J. Boll company, 252 South George street. Interment in Greenmount cemetery.

LOCALS WHIP GOODYEAR, 21-4

Ragged Game Here Featured By Loose Hurling And Wild Hurling.

In a ragged and wild exhibition of baseball, the Gettysburg All-Stars defeated Goodyear on the playground diamond Thursday evening, 21-4.

The locals pounded the offerings of three visiting hurlers freely, many blows going for hits which would have been outs had the defense played up to par.

Gettysburg used three hurlers and only three hits were gathered off their combined offerings. Knox pitched the first three frames and allowed but one hit, but was exceedingly wild, walking four and hitting another. Maust twirled two innings and Fleming the last.

Every man in the local lineup connected for one or more blows with the exception of Moser and Fleming, the latter failing to get a turn at bat. Flynn drove out the only home run of the game, a long drive in the third with two runners on the paths. B. Knox pounded out a pair of triples.

G. Myers collected two blows for the visitors, including a triple with two on. Group hit a single in the sixth for the only other Goodyear safety.

The locals will play Bendersville on the local diamond Saturday afternoon in a league game at 2:30 o'clock.

Water Company

(Continued from First Page) we don't feel as though we want to do that. But aside from that, we are unable to borrow that sum. Usually our construction outlay in a year's time is over $1,000,000, but this year we have been reduced to a construction program of only $300,000.

Both Mr. Wade and Mr. Cole said the proposals submitted to the company failed to contain the most important improvement needed in Gettysburg, that of increased pressure. Such a condition, they said, could be relieved by a standpipe on East Cemetery hill so that homes on West Confederate avenue and other high places in town would have adequate pressure.

It was intimated by Mr. Wade that the counter-proposals would contain a plan for the construction of a new dam at the pumping station and possibly the erection of a standpipe.

"Gettysburg has nothing to worry about so far as its water situation is concerned," Mr. Wade asserted, "and the company feels it is giving adequate service with equitable rates."

Mr. Wade promised to have the counter-proposals forwarded here as soon as possible.

Gambler's Throw

by Eustace L. Adams

SYNOPSIS: When a mysterious gang of kidnappers carry off Nancy Wentworth, a musical comedy star, four wealthy men and a gangster, Jerry Calhoun, and his friend, Emory Battle, join forces with a detective in determined pursuit. The unusual letters from the kidnappers, and their plan of demanding board money with no insurance of the return of the abducted persons promise a difficult task. But in an airplane, piloted by Jerry, the three men follow the kidnappers' hydroplane when it collects the board money. They hope it will lead them to the place where the captives are concealed. Unknown to them, the group of prisoners are held in a lonely house in a place of which they know nothing except its extreme heat. Mallory, one of the abducted business men, is in love with Nancy, but he is told by the gangster, Luciel, to leave her alone. The writing affects everyone's nerves.

Chapter 11

HOST OF THE HOUSE PARTY

Mallory finished his highball at a gulp and went out into the hot night.

Williams tossed aside a three-weeks-old copy of a Chicago paper and followed him. Martin remained in his chair, silent, moody. Hamilton found his game blocked and dealt a new hand. He could hear the girl's clear, vibrant contralto from the porch. The deep, resonant rumble in response would be Luciel's.

The sound of the airplane's motor hum changed to an uneven popping.

Those who had watched the descending airplane from the porch returned to the room, hoping that with the return of the ship something might occur to break the monotony. Although they were accustomed to frequent short flights when the amphibian departed upon brief shopping expeditions, the last time it had been absent for more than twelve hours, it had returned to add Luciel, Martin and Williams to the trio of bored New Yorkers who had been sole "guests" of the large house. Now it was returning from a three-day trip. Perhaps other victims would join the group.

Nervous, the staccato conversation eddied back and forth. A strange figure entered the room, that of a tall, thin man who limped painfully with the aid of a very heavy stick. As he stood in the doorway gazing about, Hamilton took him to be an elderly man, sixty or sixty-five years of age, perhaps. Upon a second glance, he noted that the pale, parchment-like features beneath the snow-white hair were those of a man in his early thirties. The eyes were young, vivid blue, and with a directness of gaze that was almost disconcerting. There was a cynical, sophisticated twist to the deep lines at the corners of the mouth, a perpetually inquiring arch of the jutting white eyebrows. The nose was that of a thinker, thin and prominent.

"Good evening, One-shot," said the old-young man as he bowed to the swarthy gangster. "You have no idea how delighted I was to learn that you had joined our delightful little gathering." His deep-set eyes flickered over the others, finally coming to rest upon the girl, who stood beside the center table. "Miss Wentworth, my apologies. It is an unpardonable breach of social etiquette for a host to absent himself while his guests are visiting. I assure you it was unavoidable. There are many harassing details connected with such a large house party."

"Ain't you Limpy Ashwood?" Luciel's voice broke the silence like the clang of a Chinese gong. The stranger hobbled into the light. Hamilton saw that his left leg was a full three inches shorter than the right. His left shoe had an enormously thick sole which enabled the cripple to walk without crutches.

"I am flattered that we need no introductions, you and I," observed Ashwood blandly.

"When are you going to turn us loose?" the gangster demanded bluntly.

"Don't tell me that you are bored already, Mr. Luciel," protested the cripple. "If any of my staff have been negligent, I'll give them two weeks' notice immediately."

He turned to the girl solicitously. "I'm sorry that I couldn't invite a chaperone, Miss Wentworth, but I'm sure that the impeccable respectability of your married companions, here, has served equally well."

He beamed at the uneasy men, his eye resting for a full second upon Mallory. Hamilton wondered how much he knew. "Why are we here?" inquired the girl flatly.

"Miss Wentworth! Are you not enjoying yourself?"

She decided that if this very strange man did not wish to answer questions, he was well equipped to parry them. She studied him intently. He was obviously a gentleman.

One-shot Luciel rose from his chair and walked across the floor to confront the slender cripple. His robust, vigorous health contrasted oddly with the meager form, lined face and white hair of the other. Their eyes met and clashed.

"I've heard all about you Limpy," stated the gangster, "and I've been wanting to meet a dude who is supposed to run a racket just for the fun of it. So you're Limpy Ashwood, eh? Well, you got brains and nerve, anyway. I'll hand that much to you. We'll either be damn good friends or one of the other of us'll get a spade full of dirt in the face before long."

settled himself laboriously in a chair. Then he looked up at the aggressive figure which towered over him. His face bore an expression of faintly amused interest.

"Yeah, that's so. Now we all wanta know what this racket's all about. It's a shake-down, o'course. That's all right, but why are we still here? Wouldn't our people kick in, or what? Did the bulls get hot on you so's you had to lam away?"

"Neither one, Luciel," replied Ashwood, patiently. "Your friends and relatives have all paid your current accounts very promptly. I am not the proud and happy possessor of some $600,000 more than I had a short time ago and that pays your board bill in full for another ten days or two weeks. They were most generous, I assure you."

Luciel whistled softly and looked down at the cripple with patent admiration.

"God! You chiseled us right, didn't you? Well, ain't six hundred grand enough? Why are you digging it all outa us? You got enough outa one outfit. Turn us loose and get yourself another flock of suckers."

"That's a logical pint of view," admitted Ashwood. "In due course I'll follow your suggestion. But I am not quite ready now."

(Copyright, Dial Press)

Ashwood is "not quite ready," he explains tomorrow—because he is planning further unpleasantness.

Gambler's Throw

by Eustace L. Adams

SYNOPSIS: When a mysterious gang of kidnappers carry off Nancy Wentworth, a musical comedy star, four wealthy men and a gangster, Jerry Calhoun, and his friend, Emory Battle, join forces with a detective in determined pursuit. The unusual letters from the kidnappers, and their plan of demanding board money with no insurance of the return of the abducted person promise a difficult task. But in an airplane, piloted by Jerry, the three men follow the kidnappers' hydroplane when it collects the board money. They hope it will lead them to the place where the captives are concealed. Unknown to them, the group of prisoners are held in a lonely house in a place of which they know nothing except its extreme heat. Mallory, one of the abducted business men, is in love with Nancy, but he is told by the gangster, Lucci, to leave her alone. The waiting affects everyone's nerves.

Chapter 11

HOST OF THE HOUSE PARTY
Mallory finished his highball at a gulp and went out into the hot night.

Williams tossed aside a three-weeks-old copy of a Chicago paper and followed him. Martin remained in his chair, silent, moody. Hamilton found his game blocked and dealt a new hand. He could hear the girl's clear, vibrant contralto from the porch. The deep, resonant rumble in response would be Lucci's.

The sound of the airplane's motor hum changed to an uneven popping.

Those who had watched the descending airplane from the porch returned to the room, hoping that with the return of the ship something might occur to break the monotony. Although they were accustomed to frequent short flights when the amphibian departed upon brief shopping expeditions, the last time it had been absent for more than twelve hours, it had returned to add Lucci, Martin and Williams to the trio of bored New Yorkers who had been sole "guests" of the large house. Now it was returning from a three-day trip. Perhaps other victims would join the group.

Nervous, the staccato conversation eddied back and forth.

A strange figure entered the room, that of a tall, thin man who limped painfully with the aid of a very heavy stick. As he stood in the doorway glancing about, Hamilton took him to be an elderly man, sixty or sixty-five years of age, perhaps. Upon a second glance, he noted that the pale, parchment-like features beneath the snow-white hair were those of a man in his early thirties. The eyes were young, vivid blue, and with a directness of gaze that was almost disconcerting. There was a cynical, sophisticated twist to the deep lines at the corners of the mouth, a perpetually inquiring arch of the jutting white eyebrows. The nose was that of a thinker, thin and prominent.

"Good evening, One-shot," said the old-young man as he bowed to the swarthy gangster. "You have no idea how delighted I was to learn that you had joined our delightful little gathering." His deep-set eyes flickered over the others, finally coming to rest upon the girl, who stood beside the center table. "Miss Wentworth, my apologies. It is an unpardonable breach of social etiquette for a host to absent himself while his guests are visiting. I assure you it was unavoidable. There are many harassing details connected with such a large house party."

"Ain't you Limp Ashwood?" Lucci's voice broke the silence like the clang of a Chinese gong.

The stranger bobbed into the light. Hamilton saw that his left leg was a full three inches shorter than the right. His left shoe had an enormously thick sole which enabled the cripple to walk without crutches.

"I am flattered that we need no introductions, you and I," observed Ashwood blandly.

"When are you going to turn us loose?" the gangster demanded bluntly.

"Don't tell me that you are bored already, Mr. Lucci!" protested the cripple. "If any of my staff have been negligent, I'll give them two weeks' notice immediately."

He turned to the girl solicitously. "I'm sorry that I couldn't invite a chaperone, Miss Wentworth, but I'm sure that the impeccable respectability of your married companions, here, has served equally well."

He beamed at the uneasy men, his eye resting for a full second upon Mallory. Hamilton wondered how much he knew.

"Why are we here?" inquired the girl flatly.

"Miss Wentworth! Are you not enjoying yourself?"

She decided that if this very strange man did not wish to answer questions, he was well equipped to parry them. She studied him intently. He was obviously a gentleman.

One-shot Lucci rose from his chair and walked across the floor to confront the slender cripple. His robust, vigorous health contrasted oddly with the meager form, lined face and white hair of the other. Their eyes met and clashed.

"I've heard all about you Limpy," stated the gangster, "and I've been wanting to meet a dude who is supposed to run a racket just for the fun of it. So you're Limpy Ashwood, eh? Well, you got brains and nerve, anyway, I'll hand that much to you. We'll either be damn good friends or one or the other of us'll get a spade full of dirt in the face before long."

"So?" Ashwood turned away and settled himself laboriously in a chair. Then he looked up at the aggressive figure which towered over him. His face bore an expression of faintly amused interest.

"Yeah, that's so. Now we all wanta know what this racket's all about. It's a shake-down, o'course. That's all right, but why are we still here? Wouldn't our people kick in, or what? Did the bulls get hot on you so's you had to lam away?"

"Neither one, Lucci," replied Ashwood, patiently. "Your friends and relatives have all paid your current accounts very promptly. I am now the proud and happy possessor of some $600,000 more than I had a short time ago and that pays your board bill in full for another ten days or two weeks. They were most generous, I assure you."

Lucci whistled softly and looked down at the cripple with patent admiration.

"God! You chiseled us right, didn't you? Well, ain't six hundred grand enough? Why are you digging it all outa us? You got enough outa one outfit. Turn us loose and get yourself another flock of suckers."

"That's a logical pint of view," admitted Ashwood. "In due course I'll follow your suggestion. But I am not quite ready now."

LEAGUE TILTS
FOR SATURDAY

Cellar Clubs In County Loop
Will Battle To Rise From Bottom Rung.

Three teams of the Adams county baseball league will battle to get out of the cellar Saturday afternoon when all league teams are scheduled to play their fourth game.

Arendtsville, Bendersville, and Cashtown are decked out for first place with two wins and a defeat. Gettysburg, Fairfield and Gardners are at the bottom of the heap, each sporting one victory and a pair of defeats.

Saturday's schedule calls for Bendersville at Gettysburg, Arendtsville at Fairfield and Gardners at Cashtown.

The local team showed plenty of batting punch in their recent game with Goodyear but whether or not they will be able to repeat against stronger opposition is problematical. Failing to hit in the pinches, coupled with some ragged hurling, has cost the locals two games and unless improvement is made in these departments, Gettysburg will not go very far in the league race.

B. Knox, Fleming and Maust are ready to hurl against Bendersville. The infield will be selected from Kitzmiller, Flynn, Moser, Miller and McSherry. K. Knox, Roddy, Dickson, Shanbrook, Culp and Hoffman are ready for outfield duty and Johnny Keller will do the catching.

Next Monday Gettysburg will play the colored giants on the playground and on Tuesday will play a return game at Goodyear. Efforts are being made to arrange another game for here Thursday.

Rally Saturday

The annual rally of the first district Young Peoples' Council of Adams county will be held at the Pines Lutheran church, Hunters-town, Saturday, from 1 to 6 o'clock. An interesting program has been planned by members and friends of the council group.

The program follows: Welcome, by the president, William Kadel; greetings from representatives of the other districts; worship service, in charge of the Pines church group; the afternoon's address by the Rev. Apple, Peach
Crop Not Hurt

Harrisburg, June 10 (AP)—Pennsylvania farmers are receiving prices for all farm products at 66 per cent of the pre-war level while costs of farm materials are 12 per cent above the pre-war level, the federal state crop reporting service announced today.

The report said that in the commercial fruit growing areas indications point to slightly less than three-fourths of a full crop of apples, peaches, and pears and better than three-fifths of a cherry crop.

"Apples were injured somewhat, but not seriously, by frost in May," the report said. "Early varieties were favored with good weather and generally set well. Wet weather interfered with pollination of late varieties, especially Yorks, and the set is generally light."

Peaches were injured somewhat, but not seriously, by frost in May," the report said. "Early varieties were favored with good weather and generally set well. Wet weather interfered with pollination of late varieties, especially Yorks, and the set is generally light."

Ex-Abyssinian Emperor Awaits
Dry Season To Start Revolution

Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, June 10 (AP)—Like Napoleon, the former Emperor Lidi Jeassu of Abyssinia has escaped captivity and is gathering an army about him to march on the present ruler, Haile Selassie.

But, unlike Napoleon, Jeassu did not garb as a woman, it was revealed and is awaiting the end of the rainy season in the wilds of Gojjam before he tries to settle his score with Selassie.

Emperor Haile Selassie announced he had sent his minister of war and an army into Gojjam to settle the score now. It is reported, however, that the emperor's soldiers are deserting him in favor of the former ruler.

Local Pastor To Attend Annual Church Meeting

Rev. Herbert P. Beam, pastor of the Gettysburg Methodist Episcopal church, will know June 20 whether he will be returned to the local charge or transferred to another church. The local pastor leaves on Monday to attend the Central Pennsylvania annual conference of the Methodist church, at Williamsport, where the assignments for the following year will be announced at the closing session.

It is expected that the Rev. Mr. Beam will be returned to the Gettysburg charge. He has been pastor of the local church for 27 months, coming here from Orbisonia, Huntingdon county.

This is the first conference in which laymen are admitted as official delegates.

"Unwritten Law"

(Continued from First Page) woman accused of murder, was released from the York county jail where he had been confined since the time of the shooting. No charge had been brought against him. He left immediately to go to his home in Union township.

The woman would not talk concerning the details of the killing. "On these matters she remained mute," District Attorney Ralph F. Fisher stated. The alleged killer is a niece of Mrs. Frank Heist, in whose home the killing took place.

Late Thursday afternoon Officer R. H. Lucabough, of Spring Garden township; Court Detective Fred W. Kotcamp, Constable Ralph Keech and Coroner L. U. Zeeh, upon information received from the woman, went to the garage of Bryant C. Harget, Littlestown R. D. 4, who admitted he was the man who brought Mrs. Spirindorf to York.

Drove Woman to York In an interview with the officers he stated that he went to the Spirindorf home Wednesday morning to see the husband on a business matter. Mrs. Spirindorf informed him that her husband was at work but would be home at 6 p. m. When her husband did not arrive at his customary time, Mrs. Spirindorf called the foundry, near Hanover, where he is an employee, and was told that he had not been at work all day.

Harget returned at 6 p. m. to the residence, and he told the officers that the woman said that her husband must be in York, and then requested that he take her to Hanover. He complied with her wish, he added, although he had never seen her before that time. While on the way to Hanover Mrs. Spirindorf pleaded with him to take her to York. Finally he agreed and after letting her out of the car at the Lancaster avenue address, immediately left for home.

After hearing his story and questioning him at length, the officers did not take him to York.

The investigators further learned that the inmates of the Heist home had been guests at a party held at the Spirindorf residence on Tuesday night.

Funeral Arrangements

The revolver alleged to have been used by the woman is said to have been a gift to her from a woman relative by the name of Laughman. It was given to her about three months ago.

Funeral services for Mrs. Eckenrode Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the funeral home of the W. J. Boll company, 252 South George street. Interment in Greenmount cemetery.

LOCALS WHIP
GOODYEAR, 21-4

Ragged Game Here Featured
By Loose Fielding And Wild Hurling.

In a ragged and weird exhibition of baseball, the Gettysburg All-Stars defeated Goodyear on the playground diamond Thursday evening, 21-4.

The locals pounded the offerings of three visiting hurlers freely, many blows going for hits which would have been outs had the defense played up to par.

Gettysburg used three hurlers, and only three hits were gathered off their combined offerings. Knox pitched the first three frames and allowed but one hit, but was exceedingly wild, walking four and hitting another. Maust twirled two innings and Fleming the last.

Every man in the local lineup connected for one or more blows with the exception of Moser and Fleming, the latter failing to get a turn at bat. Flynn drove out the only home run of the game, a long drive in the third with two runners on the paths. B. Knox pounded out a pair of triples.

G. Myers collected two blows for the visitors, including a triple with two on. Group hit a single in the sixth for the only other Goodyear safety.

The locals will play Bendersville on the local diamond Saturday afternoon in a league game at 2:30 o'clock.

Water Company

(Continued from First Page) we don't feel as though we want to do that. But aside from that, we are unable to borrow that sum. Usually our construction outlay in a year's time is over $1,000,000, but this year we have been reduced to a construction program of only $300,000.

Both Mr. Wade and Mr. Cole said the proposals submitted to the company failed to contain the most important improvement needed in Gettysburg, that of increased pressure. Such a condition, they said, could be relieved by a standpipe on East Cemetery hill so that homes on West Confederate avenue and other high places in town would have adequate pressure.

It was intimated by Mr. Wade that the counter-proposals would contain a plan for the construction of a new dam at the pumping station and possibly the erection of a standpipe.

Gettysburg To

(Continued from First Page) gation would be an excellent means of emphasizing Gettysburg in the minds of all people in Bedford who come in contact with tourist travel. They pledged their efforts to distribute information of the vastness of the battlefields, the historic interest and scenic beauty and to urge travel coming east to plan to stop over here long enough to make a complete and thorough tour of the battlefield, the cyclorama and the museums.

Guides Favor Plan
William H. Allison, president of the guides association; Mose Barr, vice president; and Wilbur Mehring, secretary, were in unanimous accord that this would be most helpful to the interests of both the guides and general business in Gettysburg. He stated those coming in direct contact with tourist travel were securing more and more each day the necessity of disseminating in advance of arrival authentic information as to the vastness and attractiveness of the battlefields and the manner in which a tour should be made and the length of time that should be allotted to this purpose.

The proposal will be discussed at a meeting of the guides' association Monday evening and it is expected that at least fifty per cent of the membership will make the trip.

Fred L. Biehl, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is in charge of local details. He expects at least fifty members of the Chamber of Commerce to participate in the outing.

Mr. Biehl will announce further details later.

Read The Bible With Us Daily

Praise ye the Lord. I will praise the Lord with my whole heart, in the assembly of the upright, and in the congregation.

The works of the Lord are great, sought out of all them that have pleasure therein.

His work is honourable and glorious: and his righteousness endureth for ever.

He hath made his wonderful works to be remembered: the Lord is gracious and full of compassion. He hath given meat unto them that fear him: he will ever be mindful of his covenant.

He hath shewed his people the power of his works, that he may give them the heritage of the heathen.

The works of the his hands are verity and judgment; all his commandments are sure.

They stand fast for ever, and are done in truth and uprightness.

He sent redemption unto his people: he hath commanded his covenant for ever: holy and revered is his name.

The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom: a good understanding have all they that do his commandments: his praise endureth for ever.

Psalm 111.

WHEN THE BABY ARRIVES

When a little baby comes
Little fingers, little thumbs,
Little chubby feet and toes
And the little button nose
Give the mother more delight
Than the stars which shine at night.Others race to get a view
Of that little baby new.
Come the grandmas hastening there
In the happiness to share,
And among the wondering crowd
Walk the grandpas, very proud.Comes a most devoted aunt,
Whom no other can supplant,
To discover endless charms
In those little dimpled arms
And to bring, as aunts do,
Little gifts of pink or blue.So in manners quaint and strange
Thus the lives of many change.
With new hope the future gleams,
New delights, new cares, new dreams,
And with joy the old world hums
When a little baby comes.Woman Identifies
Signature On Note
To Gaston B. Means

Washington, June 10 (AP)—Mrs. Edward McLean Thursday identified in the District of Columbia supreme court her signature over a memorandum authorizing Gaston B. Means, employed to negotiate for the return of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby, to turn over $100,000 ransom money to a mysterious man who was called "The Fox."

The identification was made in the cross-examination of the society woman at the trial of Means on charges that he stole the ransom and $4,000 expense money from the estranged wife of the Washington Post publisher.

Earlier Mrs. McLean had testified that she had asked Means to drop negotiations similar to her own, between Means and Colonel M. Robert Guggenheim, friend of Charles A. Lindbergh.

The cross-examination by the defense attorney revealed the expected line of defense. Attorneys for Means hope to set up that the affair was a straight business deal and that Mrs. McLean had hired Means for a "scientific investigation."

Condon Searches
Rouges' Gallery
For "John" Photo

Boston, June 10 (AP)—John F. Condon, of New York, the "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh baby kidnapping case, made what was apparently a surprise visit to Boston police headquarters Thursday.

He was accompanied by two New Jersey state police investigators. Doctor Condon said he had come to Boston to see the rouges' gallery and attempt to identify a man known as "John."

One of the detectives said Condon felt sure he could identify the picture of the man to whom he paid $50,000 ransom in a New York graveyard for the return of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby.

Headquarters Of
Red Bonus Hikers
Watched By Police

Washington, June 10 (AP)—A special detail of plain clothes men watched over communist headquarters today as the bonus brigade established an organization they said would be "permanent."

This organization, which will handle the affairs of the 8,000 "bonus-seekers" now here and additional groups en route, included a treasurer to receive and disburse funds for the purchase of food.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE PICTURE AND THE REALITY

ALL my life I have lived much in pictures, visions, and imaginations. I have read much of China, for instance. I have studied its form and read of its substance of life. I know its boundaries, its form of government, and a little of its people. But should I ever visit that country, I am sure I would be amazed—as though I had been suddenly dropped into a strange land of which I knew scarcely nothing at all.

Few of our impressions from a distance contain anything but fragmentary accuracy. I love to read of a country, or place where I plan to visit—then get the happy reaction upon seeing it. Thereafter everything you hear or read of that country, or place, enlivens it anew for you.

We need constant changes in our life to keep it healthy with interest. And such a process happily is not dependent upon mere money. I was the owner of a million dollar estate this morning—for half an hour or so, as I walked about it, drank in the beauty from its lovely trees and flowers, and lived its romance anew.

The student in college studies about theories, learns about the story of things, has aroused in his mind pictures of realities—but when he has finished his studies and gone out into the real world, he finds he has to do a great deal of revising of his ideas!

But we who cannot always have the greater realities, can gain wonderful happiness from our reading and associations. We can become world travelers—in a little room at home, or in a public library!

Many times the reality is illusioning, so that we may often be harboring hidden disappointments! And we may, therefore, be better off than we think.

But there can be no gainsaying that the more we see, and live in the seeing, the more we know and the better are we educated in mind and in heart.

Director's Nephew Passes Screen Test Under Assumed Name.

Hollywood (AP)—Be skeptical if you like, but the fact that Frank Borzage, the film director, is his uncle had nothing to do with Raymond Borzage's selection for the role in "Young America" that may make him a movie favorite.

Fourteen-year-old Raymond had obtained extra work in one or two of his uncle's pictures before, but when he sought the big role of "Natty" Beamish in this latest Borzage production he had to take his chance with numerous other applicants.

He applied as Raymond Cortella and it was not until after his test was approved, not by his uncle but by an impersonal casting director, that the studio gave him back his real name. And when Director Borzage saw the test, he says he was proud of Raymond.

Young Borzage is slight, rather shy and has a voice that is in a class by itself. It is his natural speaking voice, and "Natty" Beamish is simply young Borzage wearing spectacles and talking about "great inventions." He is that natural an actor.

Raymond's hobby is music, the piano, which he has studied four years. But he doesn't like to practice and that's why he says "I'd rather be and actor than a musician, any day."

Asked what he thought of his uncle as a director, he said frankly: "Well, I think he's keen—but I wouldn't want him to hear me say that. He might think I was just trying to get in good with him."

Surrenders To Detroit Police

Detroit, June 10 (AP)—Harry Fleisher, sought for many months in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnapping and Detroit's apartment house massacre, has surrendered. He arrived at police headquarters accompanied by two attorneys.

Fleisher, well dressed, appeared extremely nervous. He was taken to the office of the prosecuting attorney, Harry S. Toy. Later Fleisher came from the attorney's office seemingly less nervous and posed for photographers. He refused to answer questions.

"Did you have anything to do with the Lindbergh kidnapping?" he was asked. Fleisher shrugged his shoulders and said nothing.

Prosecutor Toy said he had instructed police to notify federal authorities of the gangster's arrest. He said Fleisher had been sought on a charge of violating the prohibition laws.

New York, June 10 (AP)—First intimation that investigators in the Lindbergh kidnapping case sought Harry Fleisher, Detroit gangster, came last March 22, when police staged a spectacular raid here in the hope of capturing him.

They found only two women, an eight-year-old boy and an unemployed man, all of whom were released after questioning.

Subsequently Fleisher and Abe Wagner were mentioned many times in the bulletins of the New Jersey state police as being sought although grounds for linking them with the kidnapping were never revealed.

FOR GOVERNOR IN GEORGIA

Eugene Talmadge (left), militant commissioner of agriculture, and Hoke O'Kelly, Atlanta lawyer, are candidates for governor of Georgia in the democratic primary Sept. 14.

Food and Wage Cuts Unequal

Food Prices Lower But Not In Proportion To Wage Reductions.

Food prices are under those of 1929, but they have not hit the to-bogean so hard as the earnings of manufacturing workers, Governor Pinchot said today. In Scranton, he said the average earnings of manufacturing workers were 41.8 per cent lower in April than they were in April of 1929. But food prices were only 30.6 per cent lower. In other words, said the governor, wages of Scranton are down eleven cents on the dollar more than food prices.

Governor Pinchot has received a report from the department of labor and industry which recently completed a survey of the entire state.

Decline Revealed

The report shows the average weekly earnings of manufacturing workers, in March of this year, were 30.8 per cent lower than in 1931, 41.1 per cent lower than in 1930 and 41.8 per cent lower than in 1929. But the retail prices of food do not show a corresponding decline.

In Philadelphia in March food prices were 16.5 per cent lower than in the same month in 1931, 28.3 per cent lower than 1930 and 29.4 per cent lower than in 1929.

In Pittsburgh food prices were 13.2 per cent lower than in March of 1931, 31.2 per cent lower than in 1930, and 34.7 per cent lower than in 1929.

In Scranton retail prices were 15.6 per cent lower last March than March a year ago, 29.5 per cent lower than in 1930 and 30.6 per cent lower than in 1929.

"It is the common belief," said the governor, "that food prices are reasonably low, but these figures indicate that the cost of food does not keep step with reduction in wages."

EGG AUCTIONS ARE POPULAR

Provide Supply Of Graded And Inspected Eggs To Customers.

Eleven months operation of the egg auction conducted at Doylestown by the Bucks county co-operative producers' association will be summarized by farm market analysts of the Greater Pennsylvania council, for the benefit of egg-producing groups throughout the state, who may wish to plan similar enterprises.

William R. Whitacre and John F. Rebs, the council analysts, have just completed a study of the Doylestown project, started nearly a year ago by the Bucks county group with the co-operation of the state bureau of markets and the department of agricultural economics of the Pennsylvania state college.

Eggs, inspected, graded and packed according to strict state standards, are auctioned twice a week at Doylestown, expenses of the auction being borne by a small charge to the producers. Average sales, when eggs are plentiful, are about 500 cases a week, Whitacre said. An original membership of 30 has grown to about 180.

"We were particularly interested in asking buyers why they patronized the auction," said Whitacre, "since such auctions to be successful must attract buyers."

All Graded

"The main reason they gave us was that they were able to get a steady supply of graded eggs, so that they were certain of getting the qualities for which they paid."

"We found that the auction's main patronage comes from small produce dealers and grocers within a radius of about 15 to 20 miles from Doylestown. That includes many from Philadelphia, of course. Larger buyers from more distant points—some from out of the state—have been coming more frequently of late, but their patronage fluctuates. The smaller buyers appear to be the backbone of the auction."

Provide Data

"Numerous requests have been received at State college and Harrisburg for data which might be helpful in starting similar auctions elsewhere. Our report will answer many

Virginia Shaft Is Dedicated.—
Standing on the ground from which
some of them had charged to an almost certain death nearly fifty-
four years ago, one thousand Communicated veterans saw two beautiful
American flags drop gracefully from the statue of their beloved commander, General Robert E. Lee, as
Virginia was unveiled.

Governor Henry C. Stuart of
Virginia presided. Miss Annie
Carter Lee, granddaughter of Gen.
Robert E. Lee, pulled the cords that held the flag. Governor Stuart made the formal presentation to the war department and the response was by Hon. William Ingraham, secretary of war. Leigh Robinson, one of the noted orators of the south,
delivered the oration and the benediction was pronounced by Rev.
A. Gibson, D. D., formerly a private
in the Rockbridge regiment.

F. William Sievers, of Richmond,
is the sculptor, who designed the
monument. The Virginia general assembly made an appropriation of $50,000 for the memorial.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Deardoff, and Miss Beulah Armor, daughter of William D. Armor, were graduated the Red Cross and hopes to see service in France.

Miss Minerva Taughnbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A.

Virginia Shaft Is Dedicated.—
Standing on the ground from which
some of them had charged to an almost certain death nearly fifty-
four years ago, one thousand Communicated veterans saw two beautiful
American flags drop gracefully from
the statue of their beloved commander, General Robert E. Lee, as
Virginia was unveiled.

Governor Henry C. Stuart of
Virginia presided. Miss Annie
Carter Lee, granddaughter of Gen.
Robert E. Lee, pulled the cords that held the flag. Governor Stuart made the formal presentation to the war department and the response
was by Hon. William Ingraham, secretary of war. Leigh Robinson, one of the noted orators of the south,
delivered the oration and the benediction was pronounced by Rev.
A. Gibson, D. D., formerly a private
in the Rockbridge regiment.

F. William Sievers, of Richmond,
is the sculptor, who designed the
monument. The Virginia general

MAY BAR HUGE TRUCKS FROM ROADS SUNDAYS

Harrisburg, June 10 (AP)—Governor Pinchot Thursday said that he had requested an investigation into the cost to the state in highway maintenance by permitting heavy trucks and trailers on them.

The governor said "at my request the secretary of revenue and the secretary of highways have undertaken an investigation of the very heavy trucks, which are now increasingly common on the highways of the state, to ascertain their number, their cost to the state in upkeep of highways and the amount and character of their interference with the traveling public."

"In particular I have asked Secretaries King and Lewis to take up the question of excluding heavy trucks with trailers from state highways on Sundays and legal holidays."

NEW TAX BILL PUTS LOAD ON ALL TAXPAYERS

New Income Tax Rates Affect All Classes; Eliminate Deductions.

Washington (AP).—Income tax payers in all brackets, low, middle and high, will have to contribute several times as much money as they do now for government support if the increased levies on income voted by the senate are finally enacted into law. The senate rates were agreed upon by house and senate conferees.

Besides giving big boosts to the income tax rates, the senate bill eliminates the substantial deductions for earned income allowed under both the old law and the house measure.

Ratings Listed

This year a married man with no dependants and a net income of $3,000 paid no tax because of the married person's exemption of $3,500. Under the house bill he would have paid $2.50 next year but under the senate bill he would pay $20.

A married man with a $5,000 net income and no dependants this year paid a $16.88 tax. Under the house bill he would have paid $37.50 in 1933 and under the senate bill he would pay an even $100.

The house measure provided for a $2,500 exemption for all married persons regardless of size of income but the senate bill stipulates that married persons with a net income of more than $5,000 get only $2,000 exemption. So Bill Smith married, no dependants and an income of $10,000 who contributed $101.25 in 1932 would dig down for $210 under the house bill and $520 under the senate provision.

The exemption of a single person under the old law was $1,500. Both house and senate measures permit $1,000 exemption for the unmarried. A single man with a $2,500 earned net income and no dependants will pay a $60 tax if the senate provisions prevail in the law as it finally is enacted. Under the house bill his tax would have been $23.75.

The difference is due to not only the higher rate of taxation but to the elimination by the senate also of the earned income credit. The house tax rate for the first $4,000 was 2 per cent while the senate rate is 4 per cent. The house measure allowed 12 1/2 per cent deductions for earned income.

Under the senate bill persons in the very high income brackets will contribute from 30 to more than 55 per cent of their net incomes to the federal treasury. A married man with a net income of $100,000 and no dependants would pay $30,140. With a $300,000 income he would pay $144,640; with a $500,000 income, $263,640, and with a million dollar income, $571,140, or more than half of it.

A married person with a $3,000 net income and two dependent children would pay no tax. If he had one dependent child, his tax would be $4.

PURCHASE SIX FOREST TRACTS

Total Area Of State Forest Lands Now 1,556,289 Acres.

The area of the Pennsylvania state forests has been increased by 11,716 acres, according to Alfred E. Rupp, chief of the bureau of lands of the department of forests and waters, which has recently closed six land purchases that bring the total area of the state forests to 1,556,289 acres.

The largest of the purchases involves 4,844 acres in Noyes and Leidy townships, Clinton county. This tract is along the north side of the Susquehanna river and will lie partly within the Susquehanna and partly with the the Sprout state forests. The virgin timber was cut off this land many years ago and the second growth was partially cut for prop timber and ties.

The C. R. Quiggle tract of 351 acres in Wayne township, Clinton county, has also been acquired by the commonwealth for state forest purposes. This tract lies near the recently developed federal fish hatchery near Lock Haven.

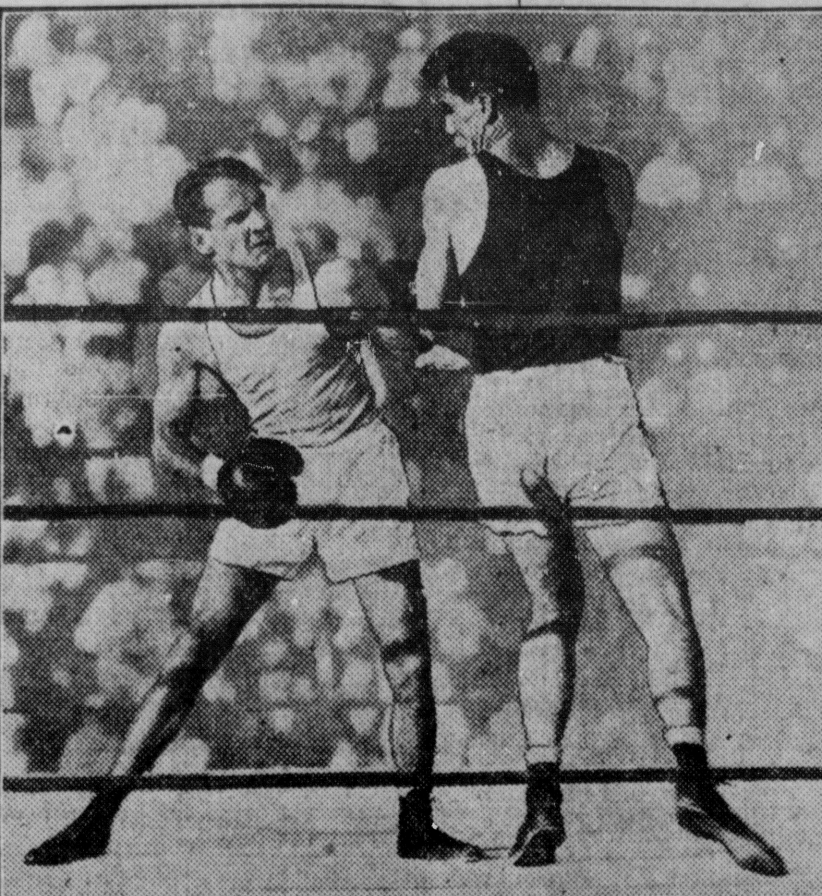

Acquire Beech Timber

From the Sewfam Realty corporation the commonwealth has acquired 1,980 acres in West Branch township, Potter county, located along the Coudersport pike. This tract includes a stand of mature timber adjoining the beautiful Cherry Springs drive.

Another large tract of 4,164 acres has been acquired from Mrs. Anna McCullough in Benetette township, Elk county. Trout run, a famous fishing stream of northern Pennsylvania, flows through the center of this vast woodland property which surrounds the village of Benetette.

Two smaller tracts, comprising 173 and 204 acres each, have been acquired in Toboyne township, Perry county. One piece of land is located along the Conococheague creek, the other is situated in Tuscarora mountain. Both properties are located within well known hunting territories.

LAUREL BLOOMS ARE REAL SHOW

Motorists Given Real Treat With Mountain Laurel Along Highways.

No shrub is more truly typical of native North American flora, reminds Secretary of Highways Samuel S. Lewis, than the sturdy mountain laurel which may be seen from thousands of miles of highway. Each year in mid-June the pink or white blooms appear, massed in showy clusters which attract thousands of motorists from many states.

For more than four weeks Pennsylvania mountains and roadides will be tinted by luxurious blooms.

Fine Roads Aid

In response to many inquiries from out-of-state motorists the highway foresters have reported locations of especially fine growth. In addition to the old state highway system, the 2,000-odd miles of new surface placed on the rural road system since last August enable the tourist to penetrate many sections hitherto difficult of approach, the foresters pointed out.

Along the Lincoln highway from Fort Loudon to Greensburg, the hills are dotted with many laurel clumps and connecting roads offer closer approach. Along the several ridges of the Allegheny mountains, which extend from the southwest to the northeast in a diagonal direction, native laurel is found in great profusion. Residents of the Pocono mountains have established an annual festival to mark the appearance of laurel bloom, including the coronation of a queen and colorful pageantry.

Plentiful In Central

Virtually all of the central counties have fine laurel growths traversed by the William Penn highway and the Lakes-to-Sea highway. Northern tier counties harbor some of the best specimens, often many acres in extent and grown to such a height as to bewilder the visitor who is not wise in woodcraft. United States route No. 120, from Lock Haven to Emporium and Ridgway offers a typical exhibit.

Laurel is found in most districts of Pennsylvania cultivated in connection with landscaping. Secretary Lewis urges Pennsylvanians to consider the attractions of their own commonwealth before planning a trip to distant points, particularly at a time when rugged mountain scenery is enhanced by nature's finest offerings and the roads promise swift, economical tours to hundreds of interesting points.

HEALTH BUSES PLAN FOR WORK

Rural Children To Get Benefits Of Physical Examinations.

The rural health cars, of the bureau of child health, state department of health, have received their final re-fitting, and are now ready for the summer's work in the rural regions of various counties of the commonwealth, according to Dr. J. Bruce McCreary, deputy secretary of health. Tentative selection of Tioga and Potter counties in the north central group, Westmoreland county in the western group and York county in the eastern end of the state, has been announced, as centers of activity for the health cars during the next few months.

Physicians, dentists, dental hygienists and nurses make up the personnel of each car, and their work is directed by Dr. Mary Riggs Noble, chief of the pre-school division, bureau of child health. The activities of the cars are confined to the rural sections in each county, since the entire purpose of the

RESORT HOTELS LURE STUDENTS

Training Course Begun For Prospective Hotel Employees.

New avenues for unemployment relief in the mountain resort sections of Pennsylvania are seen in the success met with the first hotel service training course recently completed in the Pocono mountain region.

Prior to this year the big resort hotels recruited most of their skilled help from other states, but in the Pocono section, as the result of vocational classes supervised by the state department of public instruction, scores of trained Pennsylvanians this year will be available for hotel jobs. More than 500 residents of Wayne, Pike and Monroe counties enrolled in ten class centers last March, and after ten weeks of instruction, 384 received vocational training certificates of the state council of education, having completed the training course successfully.

In the Pocono counties there are more than 400 hotels and boarding houses employing upwards of 10,000 people, seventy-five per cent of them coming from outside the state, it is said. The labor turnover has been estimated at twenty-five per cent. Also, it is said that visitors to the Poconos each summer spend upwards of $8,000,000, three-fourths of it coming from outside the state.

The general situation prompted John H. Kunkle, superintendent of schools in Monroe county, to suggest to the state council of education that the department of public instruction sponsor classes in hotel service training. Department officials said that never before have they seen a vocational education movement receive such splendid cooperation from a community.

"The council of education," said Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction, speaking at the class dinner attended by more than 300 upon completion of the course, "will be pleased with the results of the first year of this hotel service training work which it authorized in response to demand for a service that was needed. The project is an approach to an unemployment problem that may prove to have far-reaching proportions. Hotel managers acted as an advisory committee and loaned some of their best known chefs and other staff members as instructors for the night classes. Other instructors included home economics teachers of public schools. From its very inception the movement has been a success and there is ample justification for its continuance."

Class certificates were awarded by L. H. Dennis, deputy superintendent of public instruction, who announced that plans are under way for training classes to be held again next year. Forty-seven boys received certificates for completing the training for work as bell boys; 245 women and girls qualified for certificates as waitresses, 40 as cooks; 16 as maids, and six as linen room women. Eight men qualified as waiters and 22 received certificates as bus boys.

No medical advice or treatment is given. The motor units are not traveling dispensaries. They discover health defects. The family doctor must do the rest.

OLD SPANISH TRAIL PAVING TO BE FINISHED THIS YEAR

Bay St. Louis, Miss. (AP).—Pavement of the Old Spanish Trail east of the Mississippi river will be completed this summer.

The unpaved part of the old road on this side of the river is only 18 miles and J. S. Thames, head of the Mississippi highway commission, said machinery for the work will be placed in operation in June.

Mrs. Mamie Lauer

MORNINGS FOUND MATRON AS TIRED AS WHEN SHE WENT TO BED

New triple-strength prescription Natex quickly overcame ailments that caused suffering and sleeplessness.

Whether you are merely a little rundown and feel the need of a good tonic or if your condition has been allowed to grow worse and worse from year to year and you require a strong, powerful medicine to build up your system, the new triple-strength Natex will meet your needs. Just visit Bender's Cut Rate Store (formerly Murphy's) and learn all about this amazing new prescription written by a college professor.

That is what Mrs. Mamie Lauer, who is well-known throughout the Hanover, did and now she has much to say about Natex that may be helpful to other sufferers. She says: "Before I started on Natex my nervous system was in such a wretched condition that I couldn't sleep well at night but would roll and toss on my bed for hours. Nearly every morning I would get up feeling as tired as when I went to bed and would be so stiff that I could hardly move around. My appetite was fair but everything I ate caused me such painful attacks of indigestion and dyspepsia that I had little or no desire to eat a thing.

"The Natex man at Bender's Cut Rate Store suggested that I try Natex to overcome this condition, and now that I have taken it for several weeks I find that my health has returned. My nerves are under control again and I sleep soundly all night and awaken in the morning feeling refreshed and full of energy. Once more I am able to eat and enjoy three nice meals every day without suffering distress afterwards and I feel stronger than I have in a long, long time. I am glad to recommend Natex to others for I have never taken anything that did me so much good in such a short time."

Natex is being sold and recommended by all leading druggists everywhere and especially by Bender's Cut Rate Store, (formerly Murphy's), 16 Baltimore St. Accept no substitute, there is no other medicine like Natex. Natex is the only triple-strength prescription perfected by a college professor from nature's roots and herbs.

"A LETTER TO JIM"

Work and Grow

Dear Jim:—

Well old man, I'm out of a job, and I'm not worrying. Does that seem funny to you?

We all went out six weeks ago, and there are no signs yet of an agreement. I'm not worrying because I have a snug little sum laid by in the bank — enough to carry me for a long time, but I won't wait much longer. If things are not settled soon, I'll buy out a little business here I have had my eye on, and go in for myself.

That's the beauty of having a little money laid aside; then you're independent and you're not thinking of what may happen to the wife and kids because you haven't got a job.

Jim, my advice to you is to put aside a certain amount each week and keep adding to it. It's a fascinating game, and the only get-rich quick scheme that is sure. Yours truly, BILL. Make OUR bank YOUR bank.
